STAT

NOTE FOR:

SUBJECT: Lack of Progress in Improving Current Intelligence
Production (Memo attached)

1. Pete may be a bit too tough on improvement in current intelligence but I think it is basically correct. The answer to this problem, in my view, is better communications  and in the long run getting away from hard copy current intelligence production. Short term estimates based on current intelligence should probably be disseminated in message form; coordination should be electrical.

2. As you know, I have been discontent with the slow progress we have made in IC Staff in setting up a text editing analysis coordinating net.
